

Angie, Intern GREAT LAKES NAVAL STATION

"Many things during my internship have been quite a challenge, but a good challenge. In the last seven weeks I have had the opportunity to learn and grow as a person and as a professional. I have never enjoyed any job so much. I love being in the classrooms and providing support to the teachers, doing anything to make their jobs easier and to provide a great place for the kids.

My supervisor asked me to coordinate Kids Fest, the event that we put on to celebrate Month of the Military Child. The event caters to around 200–400 people, and our theme this year is 'Growing Healthy Military Children.' I have really enjoyed this event. I have had the opportunity to network with so many people on base and to really find out what the Child and Youth Programs are all about. I'm excited to see where my internship will take me!"

INTERNING WITH Military Childcare & Youth Programs

PURDUE

MILITARY EXTENSION INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

You can travel, put your education to work and make a difference in the lives of military families and their children through the Military Extension Internship Program. Designed for college students and recent college graduates, this program provides a unique opportunity to gain practical work experience in child development plus school-age and youth programs.

As an intern, you will live and work on military installations around the globe for 10-15 weeks. Internship locations in the past include Washington D.C., Alaska, Hawaii, Japan, and Germany. The range of experience is broad, including working directly with children and youth, implementing programs that address their needs, and learning to manage child and youth centers. Check out all of the opportunities at www.ydae.purdue.edu/military.

You'll be learning from the best. The Department of Defense provides high-quality, accredited childcare and school-age/teen programs at all of their facilities.

You will also have the support of the U.S. Cooperative Extension System and its 4-H Youth Development Program. 4-H focuses on building better citizens and promotes understanding of social issues and how they can be addressed to strengthen communities. Cooperative Extension features strong networks and connections in the communities where you'll work as well as faculty and staff with specific expertise in childcare and youth development.

Are you eligible?

Qualified applicants must:

- Have completed at least five semesters of college coursework by the start of their internship
- Have at least a 2.75 GPA
- Have an educational background in child or youth development, education, family sciences, recreation, or a related field
- Be able to pass a National Agency background (security) check
- Exhibit maturity, good judgment, and enjoy working with children, youth, and their families

We welcome applications from undergraduates, graduate students, and recent graduates (within 6-12 months of graduation).

Compensation and credit

You will receive an hourly wage or a living stipend. Please visit our website for specific details.

You will also be required to attend Intern Orientation before you start your internship. It is a great opportunity to meet other interns and begin to learn about military children, youth, and families.

You will be responsible for any tuition or fees required by your institution to receive academic credit. Please be sure to provide us with the specific internship credit requirements for your program when you submit your application.

An important first step

Participating in the Military Extension Internship Program could be much more than an educational experience. It could be your first step into one of the many careers in the military available to civilians who want to work with children, youth, and families.

Consider some of the options:

- Child and Youth Training Specialist
- School Liaison Officer
- Child and Youth Facilities Center Director
